DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's response to the Office Action of 05/26/05 is acknowledged on 08/29/05.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over J. R. Farrar (US Patent No. 2,135,210).
Farrar discloses a golf ball with a groove (see Figs 1-2). However Farrar fails to teach the claimed width and depth of the groove. It would have been obvious, in view of the routine optimization, to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the claimed depth and width for the groove, since it has been held that discovering an optimal value of a result effective variable involves only routine skill in the art.

Claims 9-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Farrar in view of Pettigrew et al. (US Patent No. 6,852,039).

Farrar discloses the invention as recited above but fails to teach the use of a logo, number, symbol, and slogan printed on the groove. However, the use of indicia on a golf ball is not new and Pettigrew is one reference that teaches the use of indicia (see element 350 in Fig. 1A). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the Farrar device with an indicia as taught by Pettigrew in order to provide guidance to the golfer as to the manner in which he or she should play the golf ball during practice (see column 2 lines 55+ of the Pettigrew reference). In addition, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the claimed indicia since it would only depend on the intended use of the device and the desired information to be displayed. Further, it has been held that when the claimed printed matter is not functionally related to the substrate it will not distinguish the invention from the prior art in terms of patentability. In re Gulack 217 USPQ 401, (CAFC 1983). The fact that the content of the printed matter placed on the substrate may render the device more convenient by providing an individual with a specific type of symbol or instruction does not alter the functional relationship. Mere support by the substrate for the printed matter is not the kind of functional relationship necessary for patentability. Thus, there is no novel and unobvious functional relationship between the printed matter e.g. a logo, number, symbol, or slogan and the substrate e.g. the golf ball that is required for patentability.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 1 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP

Art Unit: 3711

§ 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
